CAREER SNAPSHOT

Tayla Field has had a busy year. Although she had nothing to do with agriculture growing up she has graduated from university with a Bachelor of Agricultural Science and is now working with salad growers One Harvest.

Tayla started her new career in the paddocks of Tasmania where One Harvest grows spinach, mizuna, tatsoi, rocket and coral lettuce. She spent the season learning the harvesting process from start to finish. This involved training seasonal labour staff, becoming familiar with the farm software, completing crop forecasting and scouting and dealing with customers, and on weekends she got to enjoy all that Tassie had to offer with bush walks, beaches and new friends.

Then Tayla was transferred to her home town of Sydney in a production supervisor role. In this job she received the salad and vegetable products at one end of the factory and sent them out to customers – ready for your dinner plate - at the other end. At the end of the year she will move to Brisbane to work with the sales and marketing team to see how the front end of the business operates.

Tayla loves the travel and learning that comes with a job in agriculture and is keen to pursue professional and personal development so she can share with you how salad greens get from the paddock to your plate. She has completed a Growing Leaders program and is a Young Farming Champion with Art4Agriculture, which means you may see her in your school sometime soon. Better make sure you've been eating your greens!

This is Tayla's career in agriculture. What will yours be?
